Church and League Officials Declare More Militant Enforcement Officials Are Needed Now.

VATICAN RECOGNIZES SAN MANIRO STATE
Rome, April 16.—(AP)—Diplomatic relations between the smallest republic in the world—San Marino—and the holy see have been arranged. This step is looked upon as important. Although San Marino is an independent state it is in the very heart of Italy. It always has followed Italy's vicissitudes so that the establishment of diplomatic relations between San Marino and the vatican is considered as a prelude to a more important diplomatic understanding, namely that between Italy and the holy see.

BOOZE SMUGGLERS HIT BY NEW PLAN

Washington, April 16.—(AP)—The government is attempting to place another stumbling block in the path of rum smugglers by supplementing its liquor treaty with Great Britain to prevent the exportation from the British Isles of liquor intended for rum row.

It is believed that the administration is prepared to enter into a reciprocal agreement with Great Britain to prohibit exportation from this country of any goods considered contraband by other governments. Prohibition officials also are understood to be seeking an agreement which would permit American officials to search ships in the British West Indies. The present liquor treaty gives them power to search British vessels inside the 12-mile limit.

MACON COUNTY ADDS TOBACCO TO LIST

Montezuma, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Macon county has grown successfully four large money crops, asparagus, peaches, cotton and pecans and this year it is adding tobacco to the list, 150 acres being planted in the Ideal district.

An experienced tobacco man has been employed to superintend the plantings on a percentage basis, as the growers were unfamiliar with the methods of culture, and it is believed the venture will prove successful, as climatic conditions here are considered suitable. The beds were prepared some time ago and most of the plants were set out last week.

RURAL BANKERS CLOSE SESSIONS

Delegates to the convention of the Country Bankers' Association of Georgia, which closed Friday at the Biltmore hotel, declared they had never attended a bankers' meeting which developed more information and discussion of technical value to the profession than the closing session Friday morning.

Visiting bankers were especially warm in their praise of the speech by Alex. W. Smith, Jr., of Atlanta, general counsel for the association. Mr. Smith devoted the major part of his talk to an explanation of the Georgia lien laws respecting loans made against crop mortgages, as affected by new laws passed by the legislature of 1924 and 1925. He also answered many questions on legal aspects of banking at the close of his speech.

Other speeches were made by William M. Hardy, a prominent north Georgia banker of Rome, who spoke on the advisability of uniform legal blanks and forms for bank use. A committee to cooperate with the Georgia Bankers' association in this matter was named. Robert Strickland, Jr., of Atlanta, spoke of the evils to which "free service" in banking may be carried, and explained how Atlanta banks have overcome this difficulty through nominal service charges on accounts which are too small to be profitable.

Delegates discussed in open forum such questions as the extent to which bankers should go in civic leadership; the limitation of interest rates on time deposits; lines of credit to farmers; the education of bank officials and depositors, etc.

Reports of committees and announcements concluded the business session of the convention.

Dawn of Prosperity Era Is Indicated by Inventory Of Assets by Floridians

Bank President Sounds Note of Optimism in Stating Fact That De- posits Are Doubled.

Palm Beach, Fla., April 16.—(AP)—Florida struck a highly favorable balance sheet here today when a comprehensive inventory of the state's assets and liabilities by representative leaders indicated the dawn of an era of prosperity and sane development.

With more than 1,000 persons in attendance from every section of the state, the "Florida Takes Inventory Congress," sponsored by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, closed its one-day session here tonight, with Governor John W. Martin, Roger Babson, internationally prominent statistician, and President Herman A. Dann, of the State Chamber of Commerce, as the principal speakers.

Sound Note of Optimism.

Crowded into the three sessions were a series of addresses by leaders in varied walks of life, from the banker to the farmer, each sounding the note of optimism and all united in declaring the era of over-speculation and inflation at an end. Throughout the convention the trend of talks indicated the speedy return to Florida to normalcy, stability principally in financial and agricultural circles, and a steady growth in population.

Aside from the numerous addresses, the outstanding action of the congress was the unanimous adoption of resolutions offered by Colonel Peter O. Knight, of Tampa, protesting against the federal inheritance tax, calling upon its representatives in congress to seek abolition of this law and requesting the governor of Florida to instruct the state's attorney general to institute proceedings immediately in the supreme court of the United States to test the act's constitutionality.

The resolutions regard the passage of the act as "unnecessary, unequal, for vicious, indefensible, without justification and contrary to the fundamental principles upon which this republic is founded; that the state of Florida declines to be coerced into repealing the constitutional provision forbidding the levying upon the estates of dead men, but avows its intention for forever maintaining and continuing the constitutional amendment in question."

From a national viewpoint, the address of Mr. Babson at the evening banquet was the feature of the convention's program. In speaking on the subject, "What Makes Values," Mr. Babson asserted that Florida's greatest need today was the influx of "more people of character who are anxious to do an honest day's work and raise a family of worthy children."

"The need of the hour here is to attract people of character, both as tourists and permanent residents. In taking an inventory of Florida, I should put these people—and we now have hundreds of thousands of them—at the head. Your beautiful palaces and expensive hotels perform a certain function, but they'll never raise the state's standard of living. To attract them, good churches, schools and colleges are necessary. The men who you want to till your soil and create industries have not their assets in safety deposit boxes, but rather in boys and girls. Let me add that nothing would bring back in the north a confidence in Florida more than word that Florida believes real prosperity is based on integrity, industry and service rather than on wealth, property or mere numbers of people."

Mr. Babson said that Florida at the moment is that some of the large financial interests in the north have become frightened at the tremendous growth here. The difficulty has been due to their natural timidity against values which have multiplied so rapidly. He is imbued with the idea that it takes time to make values. They must be taught that this is not necessary. A property can just as well increase 5 or 10 fold in value within five years as within 50 years.

Florida's greatest liability, according to Mr. Babson, who followed Mr. Babson, has been the general conviction that she had no liability whatsoever, and her greatest present asset is the realization that she actually did not have liabilities.

"It is our misfortune that we seem to have imagined that Florida was an exception, a favorite of fortune and a land of easy money, where sound business was based. Florida has been widely heralded as an El Dorado, a paradise, a magic land, where the people could get rich without working and where everyone who purchased a ticket in a land lottery was certain to win."

Sponsored by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, the "Florida Takes Inventory Congress," formally opened this morning for a one-day session, with a brief introductory address by Governor John W. Martin, who headed a large delegation of state officials here. More than one thousand persons, crowding the large assembly hall of the new Palm Beach hotel, were in attendance.

Features of the morning session were the analysis of the state's financial situation prepared by J. A. Griffin, president of the Exchange National Bank, Tampa, and the industrial and agricultural survey presented by Nathan Mayo, Florida's commissioner of agriculture.

As proof of the soundness of the banks throughout Florida, Mr. Griffin offered the following certified balance of the state's financial houses as of December 31, 1925:

1. Gross deposits: $374,955,000 over the amount of the corresponding date of the previous year; total resources $943,272,976.89 more than twice the 1925 total; cash on hand $229,234,621.07 or 32.7 per cent of the total deposits; liability: government, county, municipal and other bonds and securities, more than $144,000,000, again exceeding 100 per cent; total loans and discounts in excess of $500,000,000.

Mr. Griffin further cited the fact that these 320 banks, including 271 state bank and trust companies and 49 national banks, had aggregate capital and surplus of $229,017,000 and undivided profits of $25,341,123.47, or a grand total of $254,358,123.47, an increase of more than $22,000,000 in banking capital of the state during one year. Part of this increase, he explained, came from the growth in volume of capital paid in to care for growing business and part from new banks organized.

1. Announcement that the United States and Great Britain are considering a more drastic dry treaty. A mission probably will be sent to London during the summer to negotiate it. One provision probably would bring about the cooperation of the British government in refusing clearance papers to rum smugglers putting out from British ports.

2. Prohibition agents reported collecting expenses incurred in hiring automobiles to chase bootleggers, Comptroller General McCall ruled. A provision covering rental of cars will be included in the next prohibition appropriation bill.

3. Diversion of alcohol into the bootleg trade has been reduced 500,000 gallons a month by the special alcohol squad. One plan is to go forward to collect enough taxes from bootleggers to make law enforcement self-supporting.

Bill Introduced.

4. Four New York democratic congressmen joined in introducing a bill to repeal the Volstead act and fix a blanket law against "intoxicating liquors," leaving each state to decide the details of its enforcement program.

5. Anti-Saloon league officials, during continued conference here, are unable to reach an agreement to fight for the resignation of Andrews. Although prominent dries individually are defending his removal, his indicated the Anti-Saloon league will make no official request to this end for the present.

Andrews continued to be the center of considerable controversy because of his suggestion that law enforcement might be aided if beer non-intoxicating in fact were sold under government supervision.

Georgia Kiwanis
Continues Fight
For Road Bonds

Waycross, Ga., April 16.—(Special).—The Kiwanis clubs of Georgia are wholeheartedly for highway improvement and the action of the Georgia legislature in voting against allowing the people to pass a referendum will not change the policy of the clubs, according to a statement issued today by Judge H. D. Reed, governor of the Kiwanis clubs of the state.

"Kiwanians who have been working for a state bond issue for highways," says Judge Reed, "are not at all discouraged over the failure of the legislature to authorize the submission to the voters of a constitutional amendment providing for road bonds. The publicity resulting from the effort to secure legislation favorable to bonds has brought the people of the entire state to a realization of the fact that the only way by which a state system of highways can be paved within a reasonable time is for the state to issue bonds for their construction."

Make State Unit.

"It has been clearly shown that there can be no connected system of state highways without making the state, and not the county, the unit of construction; that the present method of highway financing, which depends on the issuance of bonds by counties able to issue them places an unnecessary and unreasonable tax burden on counties that more than a third of the counties of the state have not sufficient tax values to issue bonds for their part of the cost of paving state roads within their borders, but that any system of financing state roads which depends on county contribution must fail."

"It has been made clear that from four to eight years will be required for the state to match, from present sources of revenue, county bond money already voted, and that when the money is spent and roads are built in the counties which have voted bonds the stop-and-skip system will still leave large portions of important main state highways unpaved because of the failure or inability of other counties to provide their part of the cost of paving."

"It has been shown that a reasonable state bond issue, sufficient to pave the principal highways, within a few years can be retired from gasoline and motor license taxes without increasing either of those taxes and leaving a surplus for further construction."

"The pay-as-you-go advocates failed to produce any feasible plan that would give Georgia connected highways through the weaker counties. The figures produced by them showed that any pay-as-you-go plan would require from 20 to 25 years to pave the principal state highways and during that time millions of dollars would be lost to the people of Georgia every year and the development of the state seriously retarded by the continued use of dirt roads."

"The people of Georgia are now awake to all the facts on both sides of the question."

STATE TEACHERS ELECT DALTON MAN

Macon, Ga., April 16.—(AP)—Professor U. V. Bennett, superintendent of schools of Dalton, was elected president of the Georgia Education association today, succeeding W. P. Martin, of Gainesville.

Walter P. Jones, Macon, supervisor of the city high schools here, was elected vice president, and Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, president of Mercer university, was re-elected a director of the association. A. J. Hargrave, of Zebulon, was re-elected treasurer.

The election of a secretary will be made by the executive committee tomorrow. A proposal to have a full-time secretary and to publish a magazine increasing the dues to $2 a year, recommended by the executive committee, will go before the convention tomorrow.

The second day's session of the association was featured by addresses by Fort E. Land, state school superintendent; J. W. Abernethy, school superintendent of Alabama; Mrs. Anna L. Burdick, federal agent of the vocational board of Washington, D. C., and Chancellor C. M. Snelling, of the University of Georgia.

Chancellor Snelling spoke on the fight made to get a bond issue through the legislature for educational purposes. He said that the campaign conducted will eventually result in a bond issue for education in Georgia.

Dr. Snelling paid tribute to Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, whose address before the convention last year he declared to have been the most constructive program ever outlined in Georgia.

Dr. W. P. Martin, president of the association, in opening the meeting today touched briefly on the vital points necessary for advancement of education in Georgia, stressing the importance of cooperation between taxpayers, the people and the educators.

The county school officials in their closing session adopted a resolution endorsing the administration of Fort E. Land, declaring that "wonderful progress had been made during the past year."

This association also endorsed the governor's active interests in educational matters and expressed satisfaction at the passage by the general assembly of legislation in the interest of vital statistics.

Another resolution requested the next general assembly to appropriate one million dollars to the school equalization fund.

Tonight rural education was discussed by Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, of the Michigan State College for Teachers, and Dr. Harry Clark, of Furman university, was the only other speaker. During the afternoon there were numerous departmental meetings. The convention will come to a close tomorrow morning.

CONGRESS ASKED FOR $19,177,500

Washington, April 16.—(AP)—Congress was asked today by Secretary Wilbur to appropriate $19,177,500 for construction work which the navy department considers urgent.

Approximately half of the proposed expenditure would go to the naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, which would be allotted more than $9,000,000 for improvements.

The proposals are in line with the report of a congressional committee that visited Hawaii last summer.

The navy department desires $2,535,000 for the Puget Sound navy yard.

Smaller appropriations were requested for barracks and other improvements in the naval establishments at Norfolk and Hampton Roads, Va.; San Diego, Calif.; Portsmouth, N. H.; New London, Conn., and the Canal Zone. Appropriations totaling more than $1,000,000 were asked for the construction of barracks and other projects at the Quantico, Va., marine corps base.

Secretary Wilbur said the program had been endorsed by the budget bureau.

In concluding the report, the commission said with sincere regret that we make this official announcement of two deaths in the personnel of our commission within a comparatively short period of time.

James D. Price died on September 25, 1925, and Chairman Paul B. Trammell died on February 10, 1926.

Both Chairman Trammell and Commissioner Price served on the commission for many years with distinction and their passing brought genuine sorrow to countless citizens throughout the state. Appropriate resolutions were passed and a record made of same on the minutes of the commission.

Among those now under attack and which the commission is giving consideration at this time, the report lists the following:

The case pending before the interstate commerce commission in an effort on the part of the railroads to increase fertilizer rates in Georgia. The tentative report of the commission recently submitted in this case sustains the Georgia rates on fertilizer.

The class rate investigation covering all southeastern territory is still pending before the I. C. C., but an order is expected at an early date in this case.

Rates on cement are now under investigation with the probability of a final order at the close of 1926.

The order on sand, gravel and crushed stone, prescribed by the Georgia commission in 1925, is now under attack by the Atlantic Coast Line and several short lines before the I. C. C. with a final order likely during 1926.

The order of the Georgia commission prohibiting rate rules and regulations governing the concentration, warehousing and re-shipping of cotton at compress points in Georgia, is now under consideration by the I. C. C. in the manner and general investigation looking for uniformity on interstate movement.

The Georgia commission has taken active part in the general investigation of all freight rates in the United States, growing out of the Hoch-Smith resolution adopted by congress. This is one of the largest cases ever handled by the Interstate Commerce commission, and the final order of necessity is of concern to all states in the union.

The Georgia commission is investigating interstate rates on peaches from Georgia shipping points to northern and eastern destinations, looking to lower rates.

There is now a general investigation before the Interstate Commerce commission in regard to charges for refrigeration service, in which the Georgia commission will take an active part.

The Georgia commission has recently concurred in a rule promulgated by the carriers, providing for the payment of less than carload shipments of fruit and vegetables. At this time small growers of fruits and vegetables, who do not produce in sufficient quantities to ship carloads, cannot afford refrigeration service, and therefore have to ship by express or pay freight charges on a full carload shipment.

Rates on lumber and other forest products in southern territory, are now being considered by the Interstate Commerce commission, the Georgia commission is co-operating in this case.

The Texas Oil company, Gulf Refining company, and other petroleum companies, have recently filed complaints with the I. C. C. concerning rates on petroleum and petroleum products. The Georgia commission will participate in this investigation.

1. Announcement that the United States and Great Britain are considering a more drastic dry treaty. A mission probably will be sent to London during the summer to negotiate it. One provision probably would bring about the cooperation of the British government in refusing clearance papers to rum smugglers putting out from British ports.

2. Prohibition agents reported collecting expenses incurred in hiring automobiles to chase bootleggers, Comptroller General McCall ruled. A provision covering rental of cars will be included in the next prohibition appropriation bill.

3. Diversion of alcohol into the bootleg trade has been reduced 500,000 gallons a month by the special alcohol squad. One plan is to go forward to collect enough taxes from bootleggers to make law enforcement self-supporting.

4. Four New York democratic congressmen joined in introducing a bill to repeal the Volstead act and fix a blanket law against "intoxicating liquors," leaving each state to decide the details of its enforcement program.

5. Anti-Saloon league officials, during continued conference here, are unable to reach an agreement to fight for the resignation of Andrews. Although prominent dries individually are defending his removal, his indicated the Anti-Saloon league will make no official request to this end for the present.

Andrews continued to be the center of considerable controversy because of his suggestion that law enforcement might be aided if beer non-intoxicating in fact were sold under government supervision.

"General Andrews by his frank admission has done much to help real temperance," Senator Edge, New Jersey, republican, said. Dries apparently prefer theoretical temperance and practical debauchery."

Spring Accents the Charm of Avondale Estates

The New Lake Section Has Caught the Public Fancy--

SPRINGTIME paints pictures no mortal hand can copy---and with its deft, colorful touches is emphasizing to thousands the irresistible appeal of Avondale Estates.

For here are the cherished elements of an ideal home---blended to perfection---unsurpassed in all the South.

The new Lake Section, in particular, has caught the public fancy, and with amazingly good reasons!

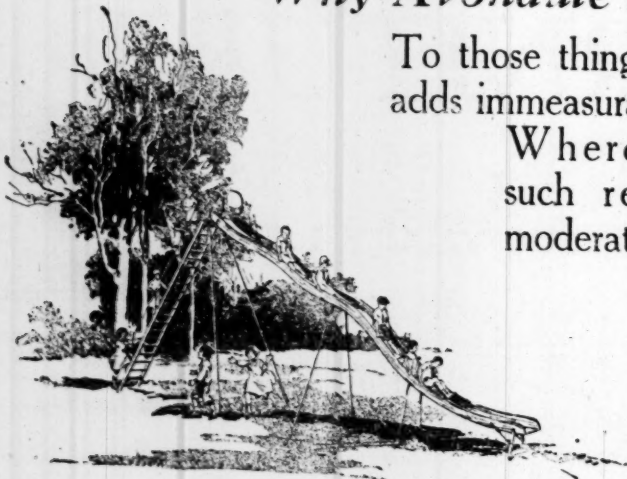

The enthusiasm with which its new opening has been greeted is unshakeable proof that those who plan new homes can not overlook Avondale Estates.

For Avondale Estates is close in, but twenty minutes from Five Points by motor, thirty by express trolley on the main Stone Mountain line. It is supplied with every metropolitan comfort and convenience---a city at the city's gates.

Why Avondale Is Great

To those things Avondale adds immeasurably!

Where else --- at such remarkably moderate prices--- can you own your home in the midst of all the pleasures of out-of-doors? With boating, swimming, fishing, almost in your own front yard; with a splendid golf course almost within a stone's throw; with well-stocked riding stables and miles of winding bridle paths; with a swimming pool, large, picturesque and excellently appointed; with tennis courts and athletic fields of every kind; with acres on acres of parks and with youngsters' playgrounds more completely equipped than any south of Philadelphia.

Avondale's residents can answer the call of Spring or any other season that lures to the great outdoors.

A Reality!

Avondale Estates is not a vision, it is a tangible reality, already acclaimed by all Atlanta, by home seekers and by real estate men who have "grown up" with local realty values and conditions.

Avondale Gardens and Dairy

W. B. Deckner, one of the South's foremost horticulturists, has personal supervision of the Avondale Gardens, where every variety of vegetable is being grown---and supplied to the residents of Avondale at actual cost of production.

J. T. Cain, a dairy expert of years' experience, is in charge of the Avondale Dairies where thirty blooded Jersey cows supply the citizens of Avondale with freshest milk and cream.

More evidence of Avondale's completeness!

A Future Already Assured

One who observes what is now at Avondale can not fail to visualize its future. Much has already been achieved, but the wonders you now see are but a glimpse of the Avondale-to-be---a model city of 15,000 people.

Values are rising. Prices must inevitably follow. The remarkably low sums for which lots are now obtainable are positively startling, and those who purchase now are bound to profit greatly. Now, while prices are low and Avondale is surging ahead, is the time for the pioneer---always the man to profit most.

If it is a home you seek, where can Avondale be surpassed? If an investment where is enhancement more certain?

Be one of those to invest while such remarkable prices are in force---Visit Avondale today!

Our downtown offices are now open---at 169-171 Peachtree Street, corner of Ellis.

New York, April 16.—(AP)—Prospects for generally fair and warmer weather in the south seemed responsible for declines in the cotton market today. New crop deliveries made new records for the season, October selling off to 17.14 or 24 points lower, while May broke to 18.62 or 20 points below yesterday's closing quotation. The general market closed steady, but within a point of two at the lowest, showing net declines of 17 to 27 points.

The market opened steady 1 to 3 points lower and soon showed net losses of 5 to 8 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and a more favorable weather map. Initial selling promoted by the improving weather situation then seemed to have run its course and trading was very quiet during midday with fluctuations narrow.

Failure of the renewed steadiness to bring in buying of any general character encouraged bearish sentiment, however, and offerings became heavier in the afternoon. Wall Street selling may have been inspired by the action of the spot market. May contracts seemed to be obtainable at a slight reduced premium over July, but the main factor was the prospect for good weather over the week-end.

Southern as well as local and Wall street selling developed on the decline which followed and carried active months about 18 to 26 points net lower. May contracts, which had sold at 19.00 cents at the beginning of the week, broke about 38 points from that level while December declined from 17.23, the recent high price, to 16.80, compared with 16.83, the lower price touched at the beginning of the week. Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest.

The week-end figures attracted very little comment and did not appear to be considered a factor either way, but the trade was evidently very favorably impressed by the weather outlook and the selling was supposed to be in the belief that with continued good weather.

The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM.

New York, April 16.—While still believing that the low average price of 50 representative stocks for 1925 has not been made many successful stock market traders started in this morning to cover their outstanding short sales. Last night the borrowing demand for stocks was larger than any time since sentiment switched from the bull to the bear side of the market. Shrewd traders figured overnight that there were entirely too many bears short of stock today of the type that know exactly how far stocks are going to decline, exactly how long the bear market will last, exactly how long the expected slowing down in general trade will last and how far it will go. In expressing their views on the expected decline in the stock market and on the extent of the expected slowing down in general trade bears are certainly going the limit.

Favorable outlook was exaggerated while stock prices were advancing. Hence, the selling head that with too much company on the bear side the over-sold stock market is due for a temporary recovery even if later the market becomes a good short sale again after the recovery has run its course. Automobile shares were leaders in today's price advance based on short covering. The outstanding short interest is much larger in the motor shares than in any other one class of stocks. Moreover, rumors got about early today that early next week General Motors is going to publish an earnings statement for the first quarter which would show the whole year's regular dividend of 7 per cent nearly earned by the parent company with a substantial surplus over 7 per cent including the returns of subsidiary and affiliated companies.

Only a few days ago traders in stock market who were selling borrowed motor shares were frightened holders of long motor shares by telling of what had happened to the earnings of motor companies. Today these same traders having covered their short sales are frightening the holders of short of motor shares by stories of how the motor industry is not nearly as bad off as many people suppose; that the motor companies are unburdened of debt; that they have no large inventories; that a temporary slowing down in general trade can be weathered by the motor companies merely through sales of renewals and parts.

During the past week out of town banks duplicated the previous performance of local banks by increasing their loans but secured by stock exchange collateral while the local banks cut down their loans. Today's statement showing the week ending April 7 shows another reduction of $85,000,000 in bank loans secured by stock exchange collateral made up through a reduction of $80,000,000 in the accounts of local banks, an increase of $11,000,000 in the accounts of out-of-town banks and a reduction of $8,000,000 in the item "for others." Compared with the peak figures of January 6 the loans of banks in this federal reserve district secured by stock exchange collateral now show a drop of $635,000,000 made up by a decline of $379,000,000 for local banks, a decline of $221,000,000 in the accounts of out of town banks and a drop of $32,000,000 in the item "for others."

Detroit Employment Decreases. Industrial employment at Detroit shows another weekly decrease, the loss for the past week compared with the previous week being $22,219. The total is now 266,056 against 227,619 a year ago and 274,399 the high level for this year which was a new high for all time.

Money on call renewed again today at 4-1/4 per cent with 4 per cent quoted outside. Only a comparatively short time ago while prices of stocks were making new highs, every week-end the stock market had a chill on rumors that the federal reserve bank here would raise its rediscount rates. Now stories are being heard that in the very near future the federal reserve bank will reduce its rediscount rate.

With Senator Gooding of the I. C. C. reporting his bill to allow an extension of time to the railroads for payment of the loans made by the government during war-time control and with Secretary Mellon approving recent delays in the new crop start would soon be overruled. Exports today 76,707; making 6,837,222 so far this season. Port receipts, 23,841. U. S. port stocks 1,043,776.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.
New York, April 16.—(AP)—Cotton spot quiet; middling 19.15.

TREND DOWNWARD IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, April 16.—(AP)—The cotton market displayed more activity today than has been the rule for a considerable time past. During the afternoon trading was particularly brisk under the influence of rather general selling pressure. The trend of prices was downward from start to finish, although the decline did not gather good headway until after noon.

After an earlier opening 2 to 4 points below the close of yesterday the market eased off gradually during the morning on better weather prospects and the decline became more rapid later on advice from the interior that the weather was generally dry. At the lowest reached right at the end of crop months were 21 to 24 points not down compared with the previous close and new crop months were 32 to 34 points net down.

The close was at the bottom, showing net losses for the day for the general list of 20 to 34 points.

At the start prices were 2 to 4 points down on disappointing cables and a comparatively dry weather map. The first trades at 18.08 for May, 17.67 for July, 16.75 for October and 16.73 for December proved to be the high of the day. Prices continued to decline after the start and it soon became evident that new crop months were weaker than the old crop positions. By noon the decline from yesterday's close was 10 to 11 points.

Selling gathered considerable headway during the afternoon, particularly for the new crop positions, and new lows were made on all months in the late trading, with May at 17.00, July at 17.45, October at 16.45 and December at 15.43, or 21 to 24 points below the previous close. The close was at the lowest.

Weekly statistics were bearish, but the paid little attention to anything but the weather. Exports for the day were large, reaching 73,101 bales. Exports for the week totaled 157,413 bales.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, April 16.—Spot cotton closed steady at revised quotations. Middling 29 points down. Sales 3,315. Low middling 14.37; middling 18.07; good middling 18.82. Receipts 2,210; stock, 354,765.

Motor industry is not believed to be as nearly as bad off as many people suppose, and it can doubtless weather the temporary trade slow-down through sales of renewals and parts.

the bill, it appears that after a long fight the carriers are to bring about the desired readjustment of the outstanding indebtedness. When federal control of the railroads ended in 1920 the railroads owed the government considerable over $1,000,000,000 for funds advanced for improvements, additions and betterments. To better maintain control of the money market and the market for new securities the selling liberty bonds to pay our own way through the war also to advance funds to allies the government to keep the railroads out of the money and security market loaned the railroads money at 6 per cent taking railway notes.

On February 26, 1926, according to information just made public by Senator Gooding, the railroads had to pay these debts to the government within 30 years with the interest reduced from 6 per cent to not less than 4-1/4 per cent, the average cost to the government of the money raised by the sale of bonds. During the four years ending June 30, 1925, Senator Gooding points out, the government received from the railroads in 6 per cent interest $840,000,000 in excess of the cost of the money reckoned at 4-1/4 per cent. It is not fair for the government which has been borrowing all the money it wants at less than 4 per cent to cover the cost of the railroads 6 per cent, especially in view of the law which fixes 5-3/4 per cent as fair earnings of the railroads.

FORD CANADIAN SHARES DECLINE
New York, April 16.—(AP)—Unusually free offerings of the shares of Ford Motors of Canada, coincident with the reduction in the Canadian import duty on automobiles, overshadowed other developments on the curb market today, the stock closing 31 points lower for a loss of more than one hundred points in two days' trading.

Buying support shortly before the market closed caused a slight rally from the early depression, however, apparently on recollection of the company's earnings of more than $60 a share in 1925 and a large addition to surplus.

Other groups of securities displayed irregularity with few outstanding changes. Gillette Safety Razor closed 2-3/4 points lower on the day, General Daking "A" lost a point or so, and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie closed 5 points lower on a small turnover. Continental Baking "A" was in fair demand, closing a point higher.

The mills were somewhat inactive, Tidewater Associated moving up a point with fractional changes noted in other issues. Gulf Oil lost 1-1/4 points on the day.

Public utilities displayed a firm tone on an improved demand for their issues. Price changes were principally fractional, but United Gas Improvement closed a point higher.

New York, April 16.—(AP)—Heavy selling of General Motors on the announcement that the company had closed down its Canadian plant on account of tariff changes, unsettled today's stock market just before the close after an earlier period of moderate strength. Final quotations disclosed considerable irregularity, a long list of net gains ranging from fractions to 5 points being offset by a smaller number of net declines. Trading was extremely quiet, the day's sales slightly exceeding 1,000,000 shares.

Outside the stock market chief financial interest centered in the strength of the bond market reflecting easing monetary conditions; the renewed weakness of French exchange, going to a new low level; the advance in Canadian exchange above the "gold export" points, and heavy realizing in May wheat which dropped over 2 cents a bushel to $1.65 3/4.

General Motors, which had been run up to 118 3/4 in the early afternoon fell back to 115 7/8; the late selling movement, closing just above that figure for a net loss of 1 3/8. Mack Trucks dropped from 109 7/8

USEFUL FORSYTH MAN IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Birmingham, Ala., April 16.—(AP)—Scientist would not let the Christian religion, Dr. H. E. Traile, of New York, specialist in religious education, told the Georgia Sunday School association here today.

PRIZE TRACKER TAKES TO DESERT TO HUNT ESTEVEZ

Cairo, Egypt, April 16.—(AP)—An ancient art of the desert, the ancient skill of specially trained natives in tracking man or beast over the vast expanse of sand, has been called into play in renewed efforts to find trace of Captain Estevez and his mechanic of the Spanish flying expedition to Manila, missing since last Sunday.

After days of steady search by British aviators, Hamed, prize tracker of the British detective force of Egypt, today was somewhere on the Syrian desert, trying to unravel the mystery of the whereabouts of the two Spanish airmen. He was taken to Captain Estevez abandoned airplane near Amman, Palestine, and began tracing the footprints of the two men, who had left a note saying they were proceeding afoot.

Children Winners.
Three prizes were awarded to children. Little four-year-old Margaret Tarleton won a special prize of $5 in gold.

Because of the large crowds attending the show during the week the management was forced to put hundreds of extra chairs and seats on the stage to accommodate the large number of people who thronged the theater to witness the contests. It was one of the largest attended contests of its kind ever held in Atlanta, it was said.

Leningrad, Russia, April 16.—(AP)—Weary from their many hours in the air on the journey yesterday from Oso, Norway, to Trotak, just outside Leningrad, the officers and crew of the Amundsen-Ellsworth dirigible Norge, rested the greater part of today at the Gatchina palace in Trotak, which has been placed at their disposal. Celebrations in their honor have been postponed until the men have thoroughly recovered from the effects of their long vigil at their posts.

MAGNATE WARNS AGAINST MERGER OF U. S. RAILROADS

Boston, April 16.—(AP)—The United States should consider carefully before taking steps toward amalgamation of large railroad systems, Sir Henry Thornton, head of the Canadian National Railways, said in an address before the chamber of commerce today. He said that large scale amalgamation had many disadvantages. The consolidation of British railroads had not been entirely successful, he said. He believed the wiping out of human contacts made necessary in the larger system, was a loss and that the expected economies had not been effected by unification. It was not "humanly or practically possible," he said, to eliminate shops or stations by amalgamation.

BELLES AND STATESMEN TO GO TO EUROPE WITH GLEE CLUB

Metropolitan Company Ballet One of Grand Opera Week's Most Vivid Splashes of Color

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

Who has ever seen the Metropolitan corps de ballet in action without saying to himself that here indeed is one of the greatest pleasures contained in witnessing the Metropolitan cast in their usual performances?

The rhythm of motion, the artistry of costuming, the perfect technique of expression all go into these living poems of grace and beauty. In them one finds the beauty of a Titian painting with its transfiguring golden light, a Corot landscape with its idyllic mood and subtle atmosphere, a Beethoven symphony—all given in these expression of Terpsichore's art.

To translate oneself into this very heaven, to be undisturbed during the period of the performance of the Metropolitan ballet is purer happiness than is often one's lot.

In Aida, the Monday night bill—the premiere performance—there is a charming part of the program given to the corps de ballet.

Sponsors and Statesmen.

That the Emory Glee club is to have the wonderful European trip this summer, of which you have heard, seems enough to fill any group of boys' cup of happiness brimful, but to have an honorary escort of governors and beauties, is indeed too wonderful for words and yet such is to be the lot of these lucky lunkies, known as the "Emory Glee club."

Have we not all always stressed the fact that talent and brains are the greatest assets in this world? To this now should be added beauty, for it is the latter on which the girls of the party qualify—the boys coming in on talent with the nice governors bringing up the rear with brains!

That this order should be reversed, we won't take up now but will tell you the story involved!

Southern Acumen.

To the governors of the thirteen original American colonies, an invitation has been extended to accompany this body of young collegians with their professors, on said European trip. Furthermore each governor has been asked to select the very prettiest—woe to the chief executive who makes this decision—girl in his state line of cars parked for blocks, in the closest vicinity to the church. To the entire neighborhood of this lovely new church there was good news contained in the statement that the church tower is to be equipped with a musical peal of bells when completed.

Traffic cops indeed will have to clear the streets at service hour when these lovely chimes are installed. May this time be hastened!

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

A BITTER MISUNDERSTANDING.

After another considering look at Celia's small face, cold and hard as bisque between the two orchids that so perfectly matched her gown, Hilary decided to speak trivially, as if there were nothing unusual in the air.

"Like so much the way you've set those orchids over your ears," he said, "they're most becoming."

"I'm glad they please you," returned Celia, "but I did not put them there."

"Then Donovan has an eye for fine touches that I didn't credit her with," said Hilary, still pleasantly, though Celia's tone had been anything but pleasant.

"It was not Donovan, either," she vouchsafed in the same rigid voice.

Then he realized, and knew she had meant him to realize, that it was Padraic O'Shea who had added the fine touch.

Celia would have been more indignant than ever could she have known the true effect of her tiny dart upon him. He felt genuine regret, not because Padraic O'Shea had stuck flowers in the beloved's hair, but because it was the first time that he, Hilary, had known her to fail in good taste.

"Whoever did it is to be congratulated on a sense of the becoming," he said dryly, and didn't even try to keep the irony out of his voice.

Celia was silent, but her lips tightened and those two patches, like pink moth wings, began once more to flutter and tingle on her cheeks. Hilary, feeling suddenly that some queerer and stronger mood than any he had yet seen must be driving her, felt compassion also. This strange being was at the crossroads. He, so much older and more experienced, should have patience with her, not allow her childish spitefulness to vex him. He determined to burn one bridge, and set fire to it by saying in a kind, indulgent voice:

"Celia, I feel that you are very much displeased with me about something. We've always been frank with each other. Won't you be frank with me now, and let me make amends, if I can?"

Her response to this was not promising.

"I'm sorry you think I would presume on your kindness enough for that," she said with prim carelessness, "when I've tried in every way I knew to show you my gratitude."

Her look was still fixed on her plate. She had not eaten a morsel of what it contained. Jenkins, who knew that his master disliked having servants stand about when he was dining alone or with his wife, entered here, and changed the still full plate for another. He and a footman served the next course, and then went out again.

"My dear girl! I do wish you wouldn't use that awful word 'gratitude' to me. It's far rather have a little ordinary affection!"

"A little ordinary affection," repeated Celia musingly.

Then she looked up for a second with the briefest, most unendearing smile.

"I suppose a little extraordinary affection would be a great calamity in a scholar's life. It's fortunate, isn't it, that I can give you only ordinary affection, which I do of course."

If it wouldn't have been so absurd and childish, he would have liked to add: "In fact, I feel 'affly' to you."

Hilary was gazing at her with quiet eyes that were beginning, however, to have a glow at the back of them.

This was a Celia whom he neither knew nor knew how to deal with. He had heard that love changed people entirely, plays astounding pranks with their characters. Well, if this was the change wrought in Celia by love, God help O'Shea! He was always two sides to a question after all. He had not considered O'Shea's side as impartially as he might have done before this unknown and excessively disagreeable Celia revealed herself.

He grabbed his growing anger by the scruff, and believing that he had subdued it, answered calmly:

"You have certainly expressed ordinary affection in rather extraordinary terms."

Celia saw not only red but red hot with dazles of flame.

"Whatever I expressed," retorted she, "was forced from me by the mere wish to be civil."

Hilary rose. Dessert had been served. She could have her coffee in her morning room or her bedroom as she preferred. He would have his alone in the library.

Celia had risen at the same time, but as Hilary had drawn himself to his full height he could look down on her, a fact which gave him a good deal of satisfaction.

In the Grandisonian phraseology and manner which always came during moments of extreme annoyance he now said:

"I thought I was speaking with one whom I knew fairly well, but I find that it was some one totally unknown to me. I beg your pardon."

"I beg yours," said Celia with stiff lips. Something about her whole look struck him as so unnatural, so somehow piteous, that he lapsed into human weakness with a splash, and cried:

"Where are you, Celia? This Celia is a stranger to me. Where is the dear, queer Celia that I knew?"

This cry loosened something that was wound tight as wire about Celia's heart, and the rush of released blood almost suffocated her. She wanted to cry back: "Yes, yes! This Celia is a stranger to me, too! Forgive me. I am only hurt because you seemed to want me to be gone! Take me back, the real Celia. Let us part friends—dear friends." But that strange perverseness hardened her heart again, and she heard her voice saying through her cold lips, a hateful, sneering voice:

"Perhaps you didn't know that Celia any more than you know this one."

Hilary replied with icy promptness.

"I believe you are right."

Then he gave her a slight, formal bow.

"I won't detain you any longer, and you'll excuse me, I'm sure. I have some work to finish by tomorrow. Good-night."

He turned and left her standing where she was, and she heard the library door close behind him.

A moment or two later the suave voice of Jenkins at her ear made her jump.

"Will you have coffee in the library or upstairs, madam?"

"In my room, please."

Jenkins went to fetch the coffee, and she began to mount the stairs step by step, dragging herself up by the hand rail. Her whole body, her heart, even her soul, felt heavy as lead.

"Good night!" If he had known it was "good-by" he might have said it more kindly. But how could he, when she had been so hateful? A pang of compunction, of doubt, shot through her. Then once more she hardened her heart.

"He wants to be rid of me. Well, he will be rid of me tomorrow—a whole day before the third one comes."

She went quickly to bed but not to sleep. No sooner had she turned out the light than doubts, regrets, even fears began to harry her. She would grasp these one by one, trying to crush them, but they would break in her grasp, and wriggle about like living things. She thought of the bacilli that are said to resemble little rods and that propagate by breaking in two. Her mind swarmed with these rodlike thoughts, each as it broke doubling itself into a different, still sharper thought, until she felt as though her brain were full of needles. She tossed and twisted, turned and turned again. Her pillows seemed to be covered with hot flannel.

ATLANTA TRAINMEN INJURED IN WRECK

Macon, Ga., April 17.—(AP)—The Southern Railway train, carrying 100 passengers, was wrecked on the tracks here tonight. The engine, mail storage car, express, mail and baggage cars turned over or were derailed. Two day coaches and four Pullmans on the train did not leave the rails. Because of a derailment on another Southern train between Atlanta and Macon earlier in the night the train, known as No. 1, was running more than an hour behind its schedule and entered the railroad yards at high speed. Engineer John P. Fant, of Atlanta, and Fireman George Vaughn, negro, of Atlanta, were killed, but neither would go to a hospital. The conductor in charge of the train was B. M. Large, of Atlanta.

DECISION RESERVED IN LEM MOTLOW CASE

St. Louis, Mo., April 16.—(AP)—Federal Judge Davis tonight held an advisory opinion on a motion for leave to dismiss, with privilege to reinstate, the St. Louis indictment charging Lem Motlow, wealthy Tennessee distiller, and others with conspiracy to the alleged theft of whisky from the Jack Daniel warehouse here. Motlow formerly was chief owner of the warehouse. The motion, presented by District Attorney Curry, was interpreted as a legal move to keep charges against Motlow and the others alive in order they cannot be brought to trial under indictments returned at Indianapolis and under which several defendants were convicted last week. Tom Hefferman and Henry Dahlman, who were associated with Motlow in the ownership of the Jack Daniel warehouse and its sale to the George Remus syndicate, are among the other defendants. A previous effort to have Motlow, Hefferman and Dahlman removed to Indianapolis for trial failed, the United States commissioner in Tennessee, before whom the matter was brought, refusing to issue an order for their removal to that state.

Follies Improves As Close Nears Last Show Today

BY PAUL STEVENSON.
Seeing the Junior League "Follies" late in the week is the best view. That's the opinion of those who wait until the big all-Atlanta show is clicking along with machine-like precision before they visited the attraction and who were well rewarded thereby.

The "Follies" show is a phantasmagoria of delight. It is a riot of life, youth and bubbling enthusiasm. It is a kaleidoscope of color and sparkle. Considering that it is an all-home show it is a wonder, a revelation, a scintillating brilliance of light, laughter and song which is truly marvelous to behold. This extravaganza can be excused after some score of other Atlanta writers have raved over the show. It really deserves all that can be said in words. It is certain that the "Follies" is now in real professional shape and those who witness the last performance today will see a perfect performance which in all probability, will be superior to the fine work the show has put on for the past few weeks. The audience that crowded the Atlanta theater to capacity. In lighting effects, in scenic novelties, in the mounting and in the costumes it is certain, too, that there are few shows of any kind in the city that can offer a finer production as offered Friday. The musical score is unusually catchy and lilted for a show produced on such a lavish scale. The comedy offerings were happily conceived and were not in the least tiring at any time and were handled by young men and women of real talent as well as performers. "Dancing features, always of understanding things about one of Ned Washburn's shows, are truly of a high order. To single out any particular number this late in the day would be folly and it can be said that all the more ambitious numbers scored triumphs Friday as at the previous performances.

Beauty in women, beauty in gowns, beauty in stage pictures and beauty and poise in dances are found in endless profusion in this year's show and those who worked so hard and so earnestly to perfect a production which will bring pleasure to Atlanta people are deserving of the highest and most sincere praise. The last performances will be presented today.
